EDITOR'S NOTE

The Journal has a new editorial team whose members are committed to maintaining the high standard for which the journal has been known over the years. On behalf of the members, the Editor apologises for the delay in publication of this present volume which covers a wide range of academic interests. The reason is that our assessors were not quick in returning the articles sent to them for assessment despite several reminders for them to do so.

The editorial team regrets that the subscriber fees and the selling price per copy have been reviewed as a result of the rising cost of production. Some individuals in the Faculty have been quite helpful, but the Dean, Professor O.N. Njoku deserves special thanks for his support and encouragement.
